Gloria:

I am satisfied with where they are going with the cleanup and further delineation. It is my opinion that they cleanup all visible oil contaminated areas within the confines of the spill area. Does it appear that their will be a sale of the facility?

Thanks

Hello:

Please see the attached map showing the impacted oil spill areas of Superior Crude Gathering, Inc. In a conversation with Susan Zachos, attorney for Superior Crude, I indicated that you - EPA's technical team - can provide any additional information to assist Superior Crude in the characterization and cleanup of the oil spill.

Ms. Zachos indicated that Superior Crude has removed all of the oil that can be removed using conventional equipment. She indicated that Superior Crude's contractor had prepared a proposal for delineating the remaining impacted areas. This proposal was drafted for the review and approval of the Texas Railroad Commission. She indicated further that Steven Halasz had provided maps, etc. for assessment by Superior's contractor.

Hi Gloria,

As mentioned, attached is a map of the areas affected by the Superior Oil crude oil spill, which leaked from tanks located on the Falcon Refinery Site. Please let me know if you learn of additional information that would be relevant to our investigation and waste characterization. Thank you very much.

Susan
